This week, we are celebrating Sophie Chaupar for her bravery and generosity. Over the weekend, Sophie made the inspiring decision to cut 12 inches of her hair and donate it to ConDonate Hair, an organization that creates wigs for children experiencing cancer-related hair loss. Despite her concerns, she pushed past her fears and followed through with her donation. Sophie's selfless act of kindness will make a meaningful difference in someone's life. Her courage and compassion are truly admirable. Way to go, Sophie! You are beautiful inside and out!

To the parent community:

Last week, we received a wonderful collection of gently used children's books for our upcoming Grade 6 fundraiser, donated by our Grade 6 parents. These books will be part of a second-hand book sale. We would now like to extend the opportunity to the entire parent community to contribute!

If you have any gently used children's books that you'd like to donate, please drop them off in the designated box at the front office. Books will be priced at $2/book and $5/3 books.

Thank you!
